Hey Guys,

I sent a ton of comments yesterday – the agenda stands – there’s a backstory.

So – looking at this again – I think our presentation on the method should go last in topic number 5 – both pieces will go there. I think we can leave it split into two topics or not (relating usage to spatial data; consolidating the usage) – whatever is easier at this point.

That means the first topic – which is ‘can we increase our geographic specificity’ – will hopefully be short as is the question around data robustness.

So now we can present our materials in the proper order.

There will be projectors and laptops. We’ll need all the materials on a stick – and please back them up. We should have at least 2 memory sticks with the presentations just in case.

I still don’t have a great sense for what FWS is presenting or how the room will look (small tables, giant circle, etc...).

This means that the first several topics will hopefully be very short. EPA is the lead on “Can we increase our understanding of geographic specificity?” and “what constitutes a robust data set”.

I’m working with Diann now on who should lead those discussions (any volunteers? If not, I don’t think it’s fair to assign it so I’ll probably do the geographic specificity question, which our position is pretty simple.)

Thanks everyone for your patience. Kris will be sending drafts of the other presentation today. Please take a look and respond as fast as possible. Sorry for all the speed.

Thanks

Brian

Subject: Draft Agenda

Dear All-

Attached pls find our updated final draft agenda. Pls note we added an agency to lead each topic in order to help facilitate the conversation. I am still trying to find an official facilitator and I have a strong lead on someone from Collaborative Action and Dispute Resolutions that may be available. We should know by tomorrow.

Thanks everyone.
patrice
